Absolutely no cold coffee

Coffee should be enjoyed hot, which is why professionals always use properly pre-warmed cups. If hot coffee is served in cold porcelain cups, too much heat is lost. In pre-warmed cups, the wonderful taste experience can fully develop. Two heating elements keep the cups inside at a constant temperature of around 55°C – ideal for preparing everything from a fiery espresso to a cappuccino crowned with milk foam.

With programmable switch-on and switch-off times, the modern Cup Warmer has eco-intelligence. It can be easily adapted to your needs and warms the cups at just the right time for your morning coffee. If no switch-off time is programmed, the intelligent machine switches itself off automatically after 12 hours.

Well chilled for the perfect finish

The best way to serve light-as-air milk foam and hot milk for trendy specialty coffees is to keep the milk fresh at 4°C prior to heating and frothing. The elegant Cool Control Basic cools the milk to as much as 25° below the ambient temperature. Once the temperature reaches 4°C, it maintains a constant milk temperature within the optimum range.

This prevents freezing and saves energy. The high-quality stainless steel container holds 0.6 litres, and the ingenious angled design allows every last drop to be used. With its bayonet lock, the stainless steel container is easy to remove, open, fill, store in the refrigerator as needed, and clean in the dishwasher.

Coffee pleasure – freshly ground, not capsuled

JURA coffee machines prepare the perfect coffee at the touch of a button – using freshly ground beans. For the best result in the cup, it is important to use whole, fresh coffee beans in order to enjoy the full crema and aroma.

An aroma preservation cover on the bean container of all JURA coffee machines optimally safeguards the flavour of the coffee beans. Once exposed to air, ground coffee keeps its freshness for around two weeks. After this time the taste of the coffee degenerates rapidly and the coffee becomes tasteless and stale. The fats and oils coffee contains can also quickly become rancid. For this reason coffee should be used up quickly.
